MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 21, 1881.

The London Daily News very justly remarks, "if Guiteau is declared insane, a vast number just like him, of feather-head, conceited fools, will justly infer that they, too, may indulge in eccentricities and murder."

GUITEAU, as described in court by George Alfred Townsend: "A nasty skin, a little like a corpse, with some reddishness overspreading its generally yellowish dampness. The face was rather long and pear-shaped. The hair, the skin and the beard all seemed to be dusty and dampened, as though out of some graveyard."

TAMMANY HALL is again said to be in the throes of dissolution, but inasmuch as it has been popularly supposed to be in that condition on very many previous occasions, and has astonished everybody by its remarkable power for mischief at such times, it may be well to put but little credit in the reports of its present moribund condition. Tammany has more lives than any cat recorded in history, and always turns out to be a very lively corpse.

Mrs. ABRAHAM LINCOLN is just now claiming a considerable share of public attention, by her asseverations of poverty, and her ill concealed feelings of envy on account of the liberal provision made for the widow of the last martyred president. She is now in New York under medical treatment, and it is to be regretted that none of her friends have sufficient influence over her to prevent her from making an unseemly exhibition of her unfortunate peculiarity of temperament.

AN AMERICAN HOTEL, of colossal size and princely appointments, is to be built in London, at a cost of over a million dollars, and when completed and furnished (at an expense of three quarters of a million more) will be placed under the management of Mr. Charles E. Leland, of Albany, one of the famous family of landlords. The hotel will be erected on one of the most commanding and attractive sites in London, a short distance from Charing Cross station, and within few hundred yards of the houses of parliament, Westminster Abbey, and the fashionable theatres of the city. The hotel will be nine stories high, with 900 single rooms and suites, and will accommodate 1200 or 1300 guests.

OLD UMBRELLA AND BUGGY TOPS are now being utilized by ladies for theatre hats. The demand for them almost equals that for confederate bonds.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S memory is to be honored in London by the foundation of a home for working girls, to be called "Garfield House." A lady has given $1,250 to a committee for this purpose.

MISS ANNIE LOUISE CARY is mentioned as the possessor of $450,000—all earned by her own charming voice. Among her treasures is one of the most perfect emeralds in the world; it weighs twenty-three carats, and is valued at $50,000. It was bought at the sale of Queen Isabella's jewels in Paris.

THE EMPRESS OF AUSTRIA keeps a pack of sixty hounds at her castle of Godollo. The dogs are under the charge of a whipper-in, and have a large sleeping room, a bath room, and a kitchen set apart for their use in the castle building.

THERE WAS AN INTERESTING AUCTION at Amiens, N. Y., the other day, the selling out of Van Amburgh's circus and menagerie. The principal showmen of the country were present. The performing elephant, Bolivar, brought $7,100. The rhinoceros hog was sold for $2,400. Camels changed owners for $625. Dromedaries were given for $320 each, and a Harto beast for $260.

THE VICKSBURG (Miss.) COMMERCIAL, a Democratic paper, says:

The next canvass in the South will be between the Democratic party on one side and all the elements of opposition combined on the other. It will be fierce in some sections, and everywhere it will be exciting. The coalition with Mahone was in accordance with the programme mapped out by the Republican leaders, and it will be carried out to the letter in every Southern State.

A CHARLESTON (S. C.) LADY, whose husband is a high government official in that city, recently said to a friend: "Though I was born and reared here, yet the fact that my husband is a Republican is considered enough to bar me from the society of people with whom I have been acquainted all my life and formerly associated. They do not recognize me even upon the street. When we attend church the majority of the communists are in sympathy with political Bourbonism, and some of these people recognize us in any way. Even the minister does not speak to us."

A QUEER TOWN.
A Decatur abroad—What we saw at Eureka Springs, Arkansas.

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 23, '81.
EDS. REPUBLICAN: It is my object in as few lines as possible to tell you of my trip here. Arriving at Seligman, Mo., a little town of 300 or 400 inhabitants, about 20 miles from Eureka Springs, and after a hearty dinner we found the four-horse-mule—hack awaiting us. The first thing we did was to go down as steep a hill as possible to imagine, then up and down and through mud holes so deep that we could hardly see the hubs of the hack. We crossed White river in one of the most wretched ferry boats I ever saw. It took one man all his time bailing the water out, while the other two with long poles launched us to the other side, which we were very glad to reach. Leatherwood, the largest tributary to White river, we crossed twenty-seven times. The trip from Seligman to Eureka Springs takes the lead of any I ever made. Well, I am at the Springs, and of all the queer looking towns! houses built on two or three pegs, only one edge of the house touching the ground, the other from two to twenty feet high. The town is built on six or seven hills, from 200 to 400 feet in height. Eureka Basin Spring, whose waters are considered of the most virtue, flows from the highest hill, probably 400 feet high. A continual stream of people flock to and from this spring day and night. The next famous is the Hardings Spring, the Davy & Johnson, Oil Crescent, Little Eureka, Arsenic, Dripping, Iron, Sulphur, are the most noted; but there are some thirty springs in the corporation, all more or less noted for cures—living witnesses of which have made their homes near the springs that they credit their cures to, and who are always willing and anxious to give their ideas as to using the water and modes of treatment. In another letter I will give you more extended particulars in regard to the springs, society, etc.

I shall leave on Monday for a hunt about sixty miles from here in a wagon over the hills. Will write when I return.
Yours, C. M. CALDWELL.

GEORGE LAW, who died a millionaire on Friday, began life in Troy, N. Y., without a friend in the world. One day, while passing along River street, a huckster who was carrying bricks for the masons on an unfinished building, fell from the ladder and broke his leg. Young Law stepped up to the foreman and said, "Can I have that man's place?" "Did you ever carry a load?" asked the foreman. "No!" "You will break your leg, and perhaps your neck," "I will run the risk," said George Law, and from this beginning he became one of the wealthiest builders in the United States, always "running risks," but for many years everything he touched turned to gold.

MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY, who are pursuing their work of evangelization in England just now, do not meet with approval from at least one eminent English divine, the Bishop of Manchester. That official of the Established Church has some very decided views on the subject of "revivals," and expresses them in a very clear and vigorous manner.

General John A. Logan then took the stand, and was asked: "Do you know the prisoner?"

The witness said he had frequently been besieged by Guiteau, to endorse his application for office, but had invariably declined for the reason that the prisoner did not seem to be such a man as he would care to recommend for any office. He had never known him in Chicago. The first time he ever saw him was when he (Guiteau) called upon him to secure his influence. The general impression formed of Guiteau was that there was something wrong in his mental arrangement.

Edmund E. Smith, employed in the Republican national committee rooms during the late presidential campaign, thought Guiteau was peculiar and slightly and peculiar in conversation.

Guiteau here interjected his customary comments: "This gentleman wasn't

Mrs. Scoville then took the stand and gave a biographical sketch of Guiteau's life, commencing with his early childhood. While the direct examination of the witness was still in progress the court adjourned until Monday.

GUITEAU'S GABBLE.

Proceedings of the Trial on Saturday.

The Speakership and Other Political Topics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Upon the opening of the criminal court, Mr. Scoville read a telegram from Emory A. Storrs, of Chicago, saying he could not possibly, at present, owing to professional engagements, come to Washington to testify. Mr. Scoville said that, under the circumstances, he would not insist upon an attachment for Mr. Storrs.

Mr. Davidge, speaking for the prosecution, was willing to have Storrs put upon the stand at any time during the progress of the trial, and this understanding was accepted by all parties.

Thomas North then resumed the witness stand and was cross examined very closely and at great length by Mr. Davidge.

Guiteau interrupted at the very outset, and protested that there was no truth in the witness' story. (Witness was being questioned in relation to the fight between Guiteau and his father, Luther W. Guiteau.) He (Guiteau) had a good memory, and could remember most everything, but did not recall any such scene.

Just as the witness was released from the stand, Guiteau improved the momentary lull to make the first speech of the day. He said: "I notice my friend Henry Ward Beecher is doing some 'cranky' work on this case. I used to attend his church and prayer meetings and if your honor knew him as well as I do, you would not pay any attention to him. There are a good many people that think he is badly 'cranked' socially, and have no doubt that Mrs. Tilson told the truth, and that he lied about it, and I tell him so publicly."

"Oh! well, well, prisoner; that will do for you," said Davidge.

Guiteau was apparently satisfied, and nodded with a smile, saying: "That's all right, Judge; I have had my say on Beecher. I'm satisfied."

General John A. Logan then took the stand, and was asked: "Do you know the prisoner?"

The witness said he had frequently been besieged by Guiteau, to endorse his application for office, but had invariably declined for the reason that the prisoner did not seem to be such a man as he would care to recommend for any office.

Rev. W. F. MAYNARD, the new pastor in charge of the Christian Church, had two very large congregations at his church on Sunday. It is a noticeable fact that the pews of this charge under the new pastor's ministrations are rapidly filling up with people from various parts of the city. The pastor's text at the morning hour was "Keep thy heart with diligence, for out of it are the issues of life." At the evening hour Rev. Maynard took for his subject, "The relation of Christianity to civilization and the harmony of utilitarian philosophy in civilization with the influence of Christianity on morals." The treatment of the subjects in both powerful discourses was extraordinary for the breadth of conception, profoundness of thought and clearness and force of presentation. The new pastor is a close student, and has given general and complete satisfaction to his congregation.

J. M. GUERNSEY is the level headed editor of the Arcola Record. He gives place to the following in his excellent paper last week: "Decatur is reaching out for the Delphi paper mills, and it is more than probable that this manufacturing industry will be located at that point. Decatur is growing and progressive city, and its advantages as a shipping point makes it a desirable place for manufactories of all kinds. Decatur is clearly holding her own in the march of improvement."

The alarm of fire sounded at 6 o'clock on Sunday morning was caused by the bursting of two oil barrels at the rear of Mr. John Strohm's residence on West Prairie street. Live coals had been put in one of the barrels on Saturday evening, but fortunately for the owners of the three adjacent stables the fire did not get under way until after daylight. The flames were extinguished without the assistance of the firemen.

NORMAN PRISONER took a "lay-off" on Saturday, and put in the day slaughtering wild ducks near Merodosa. He had quite a successful day, bagging more game than he could carry home. From the spoils of the day the editor's table received a donation of a brace of fine Mallards, which were as acceptable as any present could be.

THE public schools were closed on MR. CHARLES DROWN on Saturday evening fast fell down a stairway 25 feet long at his restaurant, but received only a few slight bruises. He tumbled down the entire distance. He was able to move around without help this forenoon.

NEXT Monday the citizens of Arcola will vote on the question of purchasing a $2500 fire apparatus to be used in protecting the property in that town. They had a devastating fire at Arcola recently.

THE PISTOL.

When arrested Carroll had a thirty-two calibre revolver on his person. Two of the chambers were empty. The revolver is now in possession of the sheriff. Mrs.
Davis had no deadly weapon about her when searched.

THE WOUND.

Lahey's wound is considered very dangerous. The 33 calibre bullet entered his body at the front, just above the apex of the stomach and passed through his right lung, lodging, it is thought, in the liver.
He was so weak early this morning that it was not thought best to remove him from the house in which he was shot.
He was placed in a bed in one of the upper rooms, where he is now resting as comfortably as can be expected.

MRS. DR. WILLIAM DILLON and her son

DR. R. N. DAVIES contributed a paper

"What are the Standards of Doctrine in of what are the cardinal principles of Methodism.

LAHEY'S PRESENT CONDITION.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Lahey was still alive. He is in a very critical condition.

who was called east this morning, says he entertains no hope of Lahey's recovery. The wounded man was caught

A MIDNIGHT SHOOTING.
"Idlewild" the Scene of a Bloody Tragedy.—The Supposed Murderers in Jail.
Jack Lahey the Victim—Dying Statement of Wounded Man.

Soon after 12 o'clock last night messengers came to the county jail, woke up Sheriff Foster, and told him as quickly as possible that a probable murder had been committed a short time previously at "Idlewild," a house of ill-fame kept near the water works by Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, and that the man shot was John Lahey, lately an iron moulder at Peter Loeb's foundry. Without any loss of time the sheriff at once got out his horse and buggy, and at once lit out for the scene of the tragedy, accompanied by Dr.
Cass Chenoweth and Officer W. W.
Mason. When near Imboden Bros.'s slaughter house the sheriff met James Carroll, who was coming towards the city.
Carroll was at once taken in custody, and was marched back to "Idlewild," where everything was found in perfect confusion—men and women rushing about with a scared look on their faces, the women crying and sniffing as though a near and dear relative had climbed the golden stair. Mrs. Davis seemed to be the directress of the ceremonies, and went on dreadfully when the sheriff entered the room. The cause of the uproar was the "accident" which had befallen John Lahey, one of the visitors at the disreputable establishment. He was found on the floor of the room in which the crowd had collected, apparently in a dying condition. He had been shot dangerously near the bowels, and appeared to be in great agony. No one among the crowd could tell who had fired the shot, but Lahey managed to murmur almost inaudibly that either Mrs. Davis or James Carroll had shot him. The sheriff's grip on Carroll tightened, and he immediately began moving about with a view of capturing Mrs. Davis who locked herself up in an adjoining room and refused to open the door when bidden to do so by the officer. The Sheriff deputized an inmate of the house to hold Carroll, while he procured a screw driver, which he began to use in taking the lock off the door. While the officer was thus engaged Mrs. Davis made an attempt to escape arrest by jumping through a window, but as she struck the ground she was arrested in her flight by Officer Mc-Cann and Dr. Chenoweth, who were there ready to receive her. She swore like a trooper and struggled hard to get out of the clutches of the men, one of whom was struck a hard blow in the face by the corpulent female, said blow causing the claret to flow freely. Officer Mason finally threw Mrs. Davis down and planted one of his feet on her neck to keep her in a recumbent position until she had cooled off sufficiently to obey orders. And while all this was going on outside of the building the mob inside was holding a sort of a bawling pow-wow, to the great disgust of Sheriff Foster, who finally drew his revolver and cleared the room of the whole gang. Soon the Sheriff learned that Mrs. Davis was corralled and then after a short stay in the house the officers brought the two supposed murderers of Lahey to the city and lodged them in the county jail.

FOR SWET CHARITY'S SAKE.

The success of the charity ball given last winter, and the fact that there are a good many worthy poor people in the city now, have prompted some of our enterprising ladies to inaugurate a similar enterprise for this winter, the arrangements for which are now in progress.

Such a worthy object should meet with a hearty response from all classes of our people.

DECATOR, 16, Nov. 28, 1881.

BARGAINS!

There has been a good deal of blowing and bargains in Doinmans and Clothes.

Come and see what we call bargains. We will sell them so cheap that there will be no chance for an argument. It is customary and not uncommon for some of our neighbors to charge from five to eight dollars profit on fine garments, and a proportionately large profit on cheaper grades of goods. We are satisfied with small, legitimate profits. Compare goods and prices, and get all you can for your money. Don't be humbugged.
